

Vice-President Is Threatened

(Associated Press By Federal Wireless.)
ST. LOUIS, July 5.—Vice-President Marshall admitted last night that in the last six weeks, he has been threatened with death a dozen times in anonymous letters. He took them philosophically and as part of the risk that goes with public life, he said, and for that reason had made no report to the secret service.

More Guards For President

(Associated Press By Federal Wireless.)
CORNISH, New Hampshire, July 5.—Special precautions have been taken to protect President Wilson from any crank whose mind might become inflamed by reading of the attempt on the life of J. Pierpont Morgan and the threats made against Vice-President Marshall. The force of secret service agents has been strengthened.

COLOSSAL DRIVE OF TEUTONICS IN POLAND AIMS AT RUSSIAN CENTER

Field Marshal von Mackensen Forging Ahead Northward At Rate of Five Miles a Day In Endeavor to Smash Slav Lines

STAND SOON MUST BE MADE BY RUSS

Otherwise Progress of Germanics Will Be Such That Warsaw and Entire Line of Great Polish Fortresses Will Be Lost

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
LONDON, July 5.—Forging ahead in his northward drive in Poland, Field Marshal von Mackensen is progressing at the rate of five miles a day in a colossal and daring endeavor to drive a steel wedge through the Russian center, dislodge the Russians from their defenses along the Vistula and force them out of Poland across the Bug and into the Austro-German army appears to be irresistible.

Stand Must Be Made
The Grand Duke Constantine has announced that the Russians will not attempt to make their stand and accept serious battle in a district devoid of railroads, but that stand must be taken very shortly or the progress of the Teutons will be such that Warsaw will be lost and with it the entire Polish line of fortresses.

Such is admitted to be the situation by the British war office officials and the general eastern situation is looked upon as critical.

Christians Leaving Warsaw

Many civilians are said to be leaving Warsaw, already, partly with a view to freeing the hands of the military authorities for any defensive operations they may deem necessary, and partly because there is a rumor afloat that the Germans are bringing with them a list of prominent Poles who will be executed, if they are captured, for their known pro-Russian sympathies.

Lieutenant Masseyedoff, having been convicted of treason, was hanged yesterday, it is reported in news despatches from Petrograd, as were three of his accomplices, convicted spies.

Russians Fight Stubbornly

In Southeastern Galicia, state the Petrograd despatches, the Russians are tenaciously disputing every foot of ground and the Teutonic advance in this section of the great front is proving most costly to von Linsingen, the Austrian commander. The Russians are here falling back to keep in touch with the center and preserve the continuity of the line, but the movement is being made in orderly fashion, without the loss of material.

The Vienna despatches, on the other hand, claim that the Russians are in full retreat in Southeastern Galicia, with the Austrians pressing them hotly and allowing no opportunity for the reformation of their lines.

Slavs Abandon Positions

The Russians, state the Vienna communications, have abandoned their positions around Minsko and Krylo, and are falling back towards the Lita Lips River.

In the Baltic Provinces the Germans are pressing an army, evidently to be advanced in co-operation with the German Baltic fleet.

GERMAN SUBMARINE

DISABLED, IS RAISED

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
AMSTERDAM, July 5.—After lying thirty-six hours on the bottom at the mouth of the River Ems, the German submarine U-30 was successfully raised yesterday. Only one of the crew was dead. The cause of the accident has not yet been officially determined.

TEUTONS LOSE A BATTLESHIP IN SEA FIGHT

Others Battered Into Flight and Minelayer Beached, Represent Baltic Losses

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
LONDON, July 5.—One battleship sunk, two battered into flight and one small craft, the minelayer Albatross, beached to prevent sinking or capture, represent the principal losses of the Germans in the naval engagement fought on Friday in the Baltic off Gotland Island, according to a compilation of the various reports received.

The Beaching of the Albatross

The internment of her survivors is reported from Stockholm.

Battleship Limp to Kiel

The limping back to Kiel of the battleship Wittelsbach and another of the Kaiser class, showing signs of the battering they had received, is reported from Copenhagen. The fact that one of the German battleships had been sunk comes in an official despatch from Petrograd, quoting the report of the Russian naval commander.

Submarine Sinks Warship

Early in the engagement, reports the Russian admiral, a Russian submarine succeeded in torpedoing and sinking the battleship leader of the German line. This was a battleship of the Deutschland class. The intensity of the battle prevented the light cruisers from coming to the assistance of the sinking battleship and it is believed that the greater number of her crew went down.

Five of Deutschland Class

There are four battleships of the Deutschland class in addition to the name ship—the Hannover, Pommern, Schleswig-Holstein and Schlesien, the newest having been in commission seven years. All are pre-dreadnoughts of 13,200 tons, carrying four 11-inch and fourteen 6.7-inch guns. The complement of each battleship is 729 men.

Berlin Is Silent

No word has come out of Berlin regarding this engagement, leading to the belief that the Russian squadron won its victory without the loss of a ship.

NEWSPAPER MEN IN ALLEGED PLOT

Spaniards Arrested On Charge of Complicity With General Huerta In Revolution

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
LAREDO, Texas, July 5.—Unofficial but authoritative reports have reached here that the military chiefs commanding the forces of Carranza and Villa facing each other in the neighborhood of Nuevo Leon have declared an armistice, and will hold a peace conference.

At San Antonio, federal agents yesterday placed under arrest Jose Elguero and Rodriguez Llano, Spanish newspaper men, charged with being implicated in initiating a new revolution in Mexico. The agents of the department of justice state that they have evidence which appears to connect the two Spaniards with the alleged Huerta plot.

Both men have been released under heavy bonds. They protest that they are in no way mixed up in the alleged violation of neutrality on the part of the Huerta junta and have interested themselves in the Mexican developments only insofar as their newspaper work made it necessary. Both declare that they are opposed to Huerta and his aims.

PEOPLE OF MEXICAN CAPITAL BEING FED

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
WASHINGTON, July 5.—Consul General Arnold Shanklin telegraphs from Mexico City that with the aid of his assistant, Mr. O'Connor, he has been able to bring "light supplies" into the city, which he hopes will be sufficient to relieve the food shortage temporarily and prevent further rioting and pillage. He sends no word of the military situation.

Liberty Bell Begins Today Journey Across Continent

Precious Old Relic of Revolutionary Days Will Travel To San Francisco Exposition

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
PHILADELPHIA, July 5.—The bell which on July 4, 1776, 139 years ago today, rang for more than two hours from the steeple of the old State House here in joyful annunciation of the fact that the representatives of the thirteen colonies had proclaimed the independence of the United States, is ready for the longest trip it has ever taken, not excepting the journey it made from England in colonial days. By special train it will start from Philadelphia at three o'clock of this afternoon on its first journey across the continent to be exhibited at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition in San Francisco, and for a brief time at more than sixty cities and towns en route.

The continental committee in charge of the journey announced that in hanging the bell, the crack in it will be on the right hand side of the car as it journeys west.

Even cities traversed in the night will get a glimpse of the relic, a system of illumination having been devised that will throw a beam of light on the bell as it passes through in the darkness.

Another absolute rule the committee has made is that the bell will not under any circumstances be taken from the car for the purpose of parading it through the streets. Many municipalities have been advised to build movable platforms the height of the car with an incline at each end so that children may go up one incline, pass the bell, touch it if they care to, and then pass down the incline at the other end of the platform. Where these platforms are provided the railing on one side of the car will be removed.

During the trip, booklets containing the history of the bell, cards with a picture of the relic and buttons also containing a picture of the bell and the American flag, will be distributed to children. It will take hundreds of thousands of these souvenirs to supply the demand. To the governors and mayors of the cities on the bell's tour, the committee has invited to journey with the bell through their respective states.

Special Moving Pictures

There will be no special souvenirs of the journey except those distributed free by the moving picture companies. The committee also refused to make any concessions to moving picture concerns, virtually every such enterprise in the country having applied for the privilege of sending representatives on the trip. The committee, however, purchased a special moving picture machine for the journey. Pictures will be taken through the journey and films will be furnished to public schools with great expense. In short the city council has placed a strict ban upon commercialism in connection with the trip.

The train will arrive in San Francisco Friday night, July 16, and Saturday, July 17, will be Liberty Bell Day at the exposition grounds. Early in the morning the bell will be conveyed to its place in the Pennsylvania building on the exposition grounds where exercises will be held.

The bell will leave San Francisco on November 1 and will return by the south coast route through Los Angeles, San Diego, Arizona and Texas. The details of the return trip have not yet been completed, but it is virtually certain that the special train will go through St. Louis, Indianapolis and Cincinnati.

Crack Slowly Extending

After each return of the bell there has been a noticeable start to prevent the precious metal from leaving the city again. The crack in it has been slowly extending and there has been fear that in its journey the bell might split in two. Opposition to its leaving the city on this trip was bitter but the council decided that it belonged to the American people and that opportunities to view it should be given whenever possible.

Sending the bell to the western coast will cost the city of Philadelphia $75,000. The escorting committee of twenty-six councilmen will pay their own expenses.

The four policemen who will constantly guard the bell were specially picked for their stature. Each is more than six feet in height. The head of the police department in designating the four men called them to the front and impressed upon them the following words:

"Don't taste any intoxicating liquor while away from Philadelphia. Don't lose your temper at any time. Don't fail to uphold the reputation of Philadelphia policemen for courtesy. Don't fail to answer every question however foolish."

Don't fail to at once read the history of the bell so that you can answer questions accurately.

The first time the bell left Philadelphia was under different circumstances from those which caused the later pilgrimages from the "Cradle of Liberty." That was when the British army occupied the city of Philadelphia in 1777 and George Washington with his Continental army spent the winter at Valley Forge. As the British approached the city in September, it was hurriedly taken to Lancaster, Pa., and was kept in the Zion Lutheran church of that place until June 1778, when it was returned to Philadelphia. Its subsequent journeys were:

1885—To the World's Industrial and Cotton Exposition, New Orleans.
1893—World's Columbian Exposition, Chicago.
1895—Cotton States and International Exposition, Atlanta.
1902—Charleston Exposition.
1903—Battle of Bunker Hill Celebration, Boston.
1904—Louisiana Purchase Exposition, St. Louis.

The train consists of a baggage car, diner, three sleepers, a special car for the reception of guests en route, and a car for the bell which will be at the rear. This is a specially constructed flat car, with an iron railing at the sides and ends. American flags will wave from masts at each corner and there will be other decorations in American colors.

The continental committee in charge of the journey announced that in hanging the bell, the crack in it will be on the right hand side of the car as it journeys west.

Even cities traversed in the night will get a glimpse of the relic, a system of illumination having been devised that will throw a beam of light on the bell as it passes through in the darkness.

Another absolute rule the committee has made is that the bell will not under any circumstances be taken from the car for the purpose of parading it through the streets. Many municipalities have been advised to build movable platforms the height of the car with an incline at each end so that children may go up one incline, pass the bell, touch it if they care to, and then pass down the incline at the other end of the platform. Where these platforms are provided the railing on one side of the car will be removed.

During the trip, booklets containing the history of the bell, cards with a picture of the relic and buttons also containing a picture of the bell and the American flag, will be distributed to children. ## TWO DECISIVE REPULSES FOR THE GERMANS

French Official Report Announces Teuton Breakdown Which Turned Attack Into Rout

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
PARIS, July 5.—A French official report announces two decisive repulses for the Germans, one on the northern section of the line, along the Angers-Ablain road near La Basse, the other on the Moselle, northwest of Pont-a-Mousson.

In the north, the Germans attempted to drive out the French from their trenches guarding the Angers-Ablain road, attacking in force.

Offensive Becomes Rout

The German offensive was carried well forward before it broke down, when the attack became a rout, the Germans being broken up and dispersed, with particularly heavy losses.

The second German offensive was an attempt to storm the village of Fey-en-Haye, west of Bois le Pretre, from which position the Germans had been driven several weeks ago. The German charge reached the wire entanglements before the French trenches, where the French rapid fire swept the chargers away, wiping out the first lines and driving the others back for shelter to their own trenches.

German Success In Argonne

Official despatches from Berlin announce an important success in the Argonne, at an unspecified point. In his offensive movement, says Berlin, the Germans captured 250 prisoners and took twenty-five cannons and seventy-two mine throwers.

The Berlin despatches also report an attack upon the fortress of Nancy by German aviators and a successful air raid against the British.

Fort Shelled From Air

In this raid, a fort near Marwich was shelled from the air and a British destroyer flotilla was attacked by the sirmen on the way back to Flanders. No details of damage done are given out.

ITALY WORRIED AT SERBIA'S ATTITUDE

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
ROME, July 5.—It is reported that the Italian minister to Albania is returning from Durazzo for a conference with the government over the recent Serbian occupation of that city. Italy always has taken a keen interest in the future of Albania, which she regards as within her sphere of influence, and is concerned at recent developments there, the import of which is disturbing.

GERMANY COMPLETES LUSITANIA ANSWER

Stanford Ball Player Dies of Injuries

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
STANFORD, California, July 5.—A Stanford baseball player, Russell F. Downing, died of injuries received while diving at the beach in front of the Outrigger Canoe Club last Saturday evening, in which he suffered a fracture of the skull and a broken neck.

Russell F. Downing Succumbs To Fractured Skull and Broken Neck

Following injuries received while diving at the beach in front of the Outrigger Canoe Club last Saturday evening, in which he suffered a fracture of the skull and a broken neck, Russell F. Downing, centerfielder of the University of Stanford baseball team, died at the Queen's Hospital yesterday morning at twenty minutes to eight o'clock.

The deceased was a native of Los Angeles, Santa Clara County, California, and was a father, mother, two brothers and a sister. He was twenty-one years of age and graduated from the university in May shortly before coming to Honolulu with his team.

Attempted To Take Comber

According to eye witnesses of the accident, Downing, who had just returned from Moiliili Field where he had been practicing with his team for yesterday's ball game with the Al-Chinese, went in swimming with several of his team mates. After a half hour's swim the players entered into a diving contest and the deceased was engaged when he received the injuries which brought about his death. Downing had taken a run along the beach and in an attempt to take a comber lost his balance and struck his head striking the sands with terrific force.

He struggled to his feet and then fell forward and his team mates realizing something was wrong rushed to his aid. Efforts to revive the injured man failed and he was immediately taken to the Queen's Hospital.

At midnight Downing partly regained consciousness but failed to show any improvement in his condition, passing away at twenty minutes to eight o'clock.

All Games Cancelled

Following the announcement of the death of their comrade and playmate the members of the Stanford team cancelled all further arrangements for games here and if possible will depart for the mainland in the morning with the body next Tuesday afternoon.

The death of their mate and comrade cast a great gloom over the members of the team and each of them paid a glowing tribute to the deceased. He was of a most likeable disposition and was honored and respected by all with whom he came in contact. While practically a stranger here, Downing made many friends by his many bearings and off the field and his sudden demise has caused universal sorrow among those who knew him, as well as with the public in general.

HOLT PLANNED TO TAKE WIFE AND CHILDREN OF MORGAN AS HOSTAGES

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
NEW YORK, July 5.—Frank Holt, the demented instructor of German who shot J. Pierpont Morgan last Saturday, has made a fantastic confession to the police, in which he explains the original purpose of his invasion of the Morgan household.

He did not intend, he says, to kill Morgan, but only shot at random when he saw himself in danger of being overpowered by the butler. The true purpose of his visit was to capture Morgan's wife and children.

He planned to take them to his home, where they were to have been held as hostages, to enforce on Morgan Holt's determination that the exportation of munitions to the Allies should cease.

Better than any other man, he believed, Morgan could put a stop to the shipment of powder and shot, because Morgan was the fiscal agent of both the French and British governments in their purchases. If Morgan did not yield he intended to kill Mrs. Morgan and the children.

Holt is dejected and nervous, more depressed, apparently, by the failure of his plan, than from a realization of the nature of his act or the serious situation in which he finds himself. No expert tests of his sanity have been made, but the officers who have watch over him all believe that he is unbalanced mentally.

Wanted To Stop War
"I did not want to hurt Mr. Morgan," he declared last night. "I only wanted to stop the war, and I still hope that my act may have accomplished some good, even if my plans went wrong."

Mr. Morgan's improvement continues and his doctors have no fear for his recovery. His temperature is good, he sleeps well and is resting easily.

Simple Flesh Wounds
No bones were broken and neither of the two bullets penetrated the abdomen. The wounds were simple flesh wounds, and the danger of infection is now slight. Otherwise, serious symptoms probably would have manifested themselves before this.

Improvement Continues in Condition of Fiscal Agent For Great Britain and France In United States and Doctors Say He Is In No Danger
